

Editorial Rooms,

Scribner's Monthly,

743 & 745 Broadway,

New York, April 26 1876

My dear Fort,

Many thanks for your kind letter. I hope the doubt will yield itself to your pursuit.

If I do one a mischief
she would not refuse.

When I tell Charles of it what you have said about his justice of mind I am sure - he will be delighted - as I and his sister are.

Glad you like the sonnet.
I like the last three lines, at least.

I send you another
May Number. Was rhymical changed to miscel in this one you sent to Sumner?

The notice of 'Joseph' is also by C. A. deK. It will appear in the next number.

C. is a modest chap & doesn't half appreciate his own force. If you should see his poetry - you would forgive mine.

